Boarding

A journey towards improved teamwork among board members

Concept and vision:

- Teamed supervisory/executive/management board is crucial for the success of every organization.
- A substantive effort should be invested in teaming board members and discovering their added value.
- The quest for an improved board's teamwork is a significant sign of commitment and dedication coming from its members.
- Teaming board members is not a process done by itself but an intended effort done with an external unbiased expert.

Main topics:

- The shift from “a group of people working together” to “a team”.
- Discovering the added value of the team.
- Analysis of the team's conduct and efficiency.
- Team decision making.
- Self-analysis of individuals' contribution to the team.
- Team vision and missions.
- Creating both self and team internal work processes.
- Dealing with internal competition, frustration and burn-out.
- Developing team leadership.

Duration and concept:

1. Three days in off-site conditions and location.
2. Limited access to phones and media.
3. Indoor and outdoor activities tailored and designed as result of the pre-analysis of the group.
4. Off-site location tailored to size of group and its needs.

Main tools used:

- Self and team analysis.
- Simulations, using CCT – Closed Circuit Television.
- Case studies, discussions, brain storming.
- Outdoor activities.

Package includes:

1. Pre-analysis and preparations.
2. Arrival, accommodations and departure of team.
3. Facilitating the workshop.
4. Folders and learning materials.
5. Summary reports.

Remarks on package:

1. Could include: taking charge of organizing the workshop's site.
2. Doesn't include: arrival and departure arrangements of group.
